Buckler Brings Showbiz Back to the Fringe

Danny Buckler's Showman Shaman

In his first Edinburgh Festival Fringe since 2014, Danny Buckler returns with Showman Shaman, an action-packed hour combining his critically acclaimed stand-up with his love for all things showbiz.

Buckler's nostalgic, romantic-realist musings on the halcyon days of variety shows make for a confident and intelligent performance from an adept comedian, raconteur, improviser, story-teller and occasional singer.

He says, "This is my third Edinburgh hour and I'm hoping for a showbiz storm! I believe this show is what the Fringe is all about - a big hour that puts the 'show' back into show biz, an antidote to the current comedy trend of deadpan down-playing. I intend to play up!"

Producer Daniel Wright from Laughing Coyote says Buckler's charm is perfect for audiences wanting to escape lad-comedy, "Expect big laughs, spontaneity, obscure impressions and, if we're unlucky, occasional musical interludes...but please don't encourage him!"

Danny Buckler's Showman Shaman runs at Edinburgh Festival Fringe from 5-28 August at The Long Room, Laughing Horse @ Cabaret Voltaire, 6.15pm for 1 hour. Admission is free.
